

Prohibition against Discrimination, Discriminatory Harassment, and Retaliation

Policy Statement of Non-Discrimination and Diversity

Bridgewater State University is committed to a policy of non-discrimination, equal opportunity, diversity, and affirmative action. The university is dedicated to providing educational, working, and living environments that value the diverse backgrounds of all people.

The university does not unlawfully discriminate in admission or access to, or treatment or employment in, its educational programs and activities on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, age, disability, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, genetic information, marital or parental status, or veteran status. The university prohibits unlawful discrimination or discriminatory harassment on all of those bases and retaliation. Such behaviors violate the university's Policy against Discrimination, Discriminatory Harassment, and Retaliation, will not be tolerated, and may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination or expulsion.

It is also the policy of the University to provide each student, employee, and other person having dealings with the institutions an environment free from unlawful sexual violence and all forms of misconduct on the basis of gender. The University prohibits rape, statutory rape, sexual assault, sexual exploitation, incest, sexual harassment, gender-based harassment, domestic violence, dating violence and stalking, and retaliation. These behaviors violate the University's Sexual Violence Policy, including Sexual Harassment, Gender-Based Harassment, Domestic Violence, Dating Violence and Stalking ("Sexual Violence Policy"). Such behaviors will not be tolerated and may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination or expulsion.

The University's Discrimination, Discriminatory Harassment and Retaliation Policy and Sexual Violence Policy (both contained in the University's Equal Opportunity, Diversity, and Affirmative Action Plan) apply in all University programs and activities, including, but not limited to, athletics, instruction, grading, housing, and employment. They apply to all members of the campus communities, including, but not limited to, students, faculty, librarians, staff, visitors, contractors and applicants for employment or admission. They also apply to off-campus conduct that negatively affects a community member's experience in the University environment.

The University has appointed a Director of the Office of Equal Opportunity ("EO Director") to oversee its compliance with those policies. The EO Director handles discrimination, discriminatory harassment, and retaliation complaints from and about students, applicants, employees, faculty, staff, and visitors to campus. The EO Director also oversees the University's compliance with the state and federal non-discrimination and equal opportunity laws.

The EO Director is the University's Title IX coordinator and is responsible for the University's compliance with Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 and the administration of the University's Sexual Violence Policy. In addition, the EO Director is charged with the responsibility for the University's compliance with Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, as amended, and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

Anyone with questions, concerns or complaints regarding discrimination, discriminatory harassment or retaliation may contact the EO Director at:

2. How Are Internal Complaints Resolved?

Complaints are resolved pursuant to the university’s complaint Investigation and Resolution Procedures.

3. Can I Be Retaliated Against For Making a Complaint or Being a Witness?

The university prohibits retaliation against any person who (a) files a claim, complaint, or charge under the complaint Investigation and Resolution Procedures or applicable law (or who is suspected of having filed such claims, complaints or charges), (2) who assisted or participated in an investigation or resolution of such claim, complaint, or charge; or (3) has protested practices alleged to violate the non-discrimination policies of the University or applicable laws. Retaliation is a serious violation of the university’s policies and may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination or expulsion. Retaliation, even in the absence of provable discrimination in the original complaint or charge, constitutes as serious a violation of the EO Plan as proved discrimination under the original claim, complaint or charge.

Prohibited retaliation includes, but is not limited to: threats; intimidation; reprisals; continued harassment or misconduct; other forms of harassment; slander and libel; and adverse actions related to employment or education. Retaliation can be committed by individuals or groups, including friends, relatives or other associates of the person against whom a complaint is filed.

Examples of retaliation, include, but are not limited to:

- Terminating or denying a promotion to an employee for complaining about alleged discrimination or harassment;

- Issuing an unjustified negative evaluation or poor grade to a person who complained or a witness cooperating in a discrimination or harassment investigation or proceeding;
- Refusing to admit an applicant for requesting a reasonable accommodation based on a disability;
- Refusing to hire an individual because of the individual’s discrimination or harassment charge against a former employer.

10. Massachusetts Criminal Harassment Laws:

Massachusetts has several laws that specifically encompass acts of criminal harassment, including Massachusetts General Laws, Chapter 265, sections 37 and 39. Section 39 describes the crime of assault or battery upon a person or damages the real or personal property of another for the purpose of intimidation because of said person's race, color, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, gender identity or disability.

In addition, a description of Massachusetts laws relating to sexual misconduct and relationship violence crimes can be found in the Sexual Misconduct and Relationship Violence Policy.

11. What Happens If Someone Files a False Charge?

Filing a false charge of discrimination, discriminatory harassment or retaliation is a serious offense. If an investigation reveals that a person knowingly filed false charges, the university may take appropriate actions and issue sanctions, up to and including termination or expulsion, pursuant to other applicable university policies, including any applicable collective bargaining agreement. The imposition of such sanctions does not constitute retaliation under the EO Plan.
